The 2024 SC Health Science Educators (HSE) Conference, is November 10-12, 2024, in Myrtle Beach, SC. This conference will feature sessions directly applicable to health science initiatives and projects that help students and teachers succeed in the classroom. This conference is the only in-state conference that is 100% focused on health science education. Teachers walk away from this conference with resources in hand that they can immediately use in the classroom. The registration fee includes free takeaway resources valued at more than $100 per teacher.

The Health Science Educators Division of the ACTE partners with the South Carolina Hospital Association (SCHA) and the South Carolina Department of Education in organizing and participating in this annual conference. This conference includes hands-on workshops presented by experienced national speakers and local master teachers. The conference also includes demonstrations of instructional resources and instructional and professional exhibitors with tools for the classroom. The conference will also provide networking opportunities with peers and others committed to preparing students for health professions.

This SC HSE Conference presents an opportunity to enhance teaching skills while strengthening contacts with others from across the state. Attendance will be an investment for professional growth, which will translate into the delivery of a quality health science education program at your school through the inclusion of best practices, real-world solutions, and a network of peers and professional contacts.
